TECHNICAL STAFFING SERVICES

Providing worldwide professional support throughout the Energy sector

Project success relies on having the right skills in the right place at the right time. To meet the technical staffing demands of complex projects, let us recruit the experienced technical specialists you need.

Our Technical Staffing Services

Our Technical Staffing Services offer a complete solution to your recruitment needs. We work to find the best candidates, provide logistical support at every stage of recruitment and employment, and nurture positive long-term relationships between our customers and our talent.

Staffing Challenges

To meet the technical staffing demands of complex projects, energy, engineering and construction companies need to recruit experienced technical specialists. For highly specialized skill sets, recruitment activities will often be global. Companies may also have an obligation to employ local expertise when possible. Intertek has extensive experience in both global and local recruitment.

As a leading global supplier of technical staffing services, we recruit highly qualified and experienced technical personnel to provide technical expertise to the world's largest companies in industries such as energy, engineering and construction. Our service does not stop at recruitment.

Through a Total Quality Assurance approach, we provide clients with tailor-made solutions that provide essential support services for you and your employees. Our aim is to be your partner, taking care of all your technical staffing needs to give you the peace of mind to focus on your core business.

Global Recruitment, Local Expertise

We recognize the value of sourcing staff locally to help you meet local employment requirements, and we also understand that some skill sets are so specialized they demand a comprehensive international search.

All of our local offices are linked to our online recruitment database, a global network sharing resources and information.

Contract & Permanent Placement

Whether you're seeking to fulfil short-term staffing needs or long-term requirements, we are equally skilled at recruiting and retaining people for short-term contracts or permanent placements.

Assignment Support

We understand that recruitment doesn't stop at providing you with the best candidates.

Our service provides support for recruitment, relocation and retention.

Make the Right Choice with Us

Choosing us as your recruitment partner will give you access to the best technical personnel, locally and globally.

Our services can help you save time and money by reducing both recruitment time and expense and freeing you to focus on your core business.

With a track record of recruiting specialist staff for some of the largest companies in the world, we have the reputation to attract high quality, highly qualified candidates.

As a global operator with strong local networks, we are in a position to understand local challenges, and we have the ability to apply global solutions. Our recruiters recognize the value of local expertise, but also have the resources to access international candidates, giving you the best of all worlds.
